

We the People of the United States, in order to form a more perfect Union, establish Justice, insure domestic Tranquility, provide for the common Defense, promote the general Welfare, and secure the Blessings of Liberty to ourselves and our Posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America.

Article I

We the People, in Order to form a more perfect Union, establish Justice, insure domestic Tranquility, provide for the common Defense, promote the general Welfare, and secure the Blessings of Liberty to ourselves and our Posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America.

Article II

We the People, in Order to form a more perfect Union, establish Justice, insure domestic Tranquility, provide for the common Defense, promote the general Welfare, and secure the Blessings of Liberty to ourselves and our Posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America.

Article VI

This We'll Defend

The People long labored over the formation of their Government, and were at length successful in their efforts. They now desire to defend it, and to protect it from all enemies, both foreign and domestic. They are determined to do so, and to do so at all hazards.

Done, in Convention by the Unanimous Consent of the States, present the Thirteenth Day of September in the Year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and eighty three, and of the Independence of the United States of America the Thirteenth. In witness whereof, we have hereunto subscribed our Names.